Geco's .45 ACP FMJ ammunition: a must-have at the shooting range

Whether you're an amateur or experienced sport shooter, Geco's .45 ACP FMJ ammunition is the perfect ally to improve your sport shooting performance. Its aerodynamic profile and FMJ (Full Metal Jacket) construction ensure a stable and consistent trajectory, ideal for intensive practice at the shooting range.

An FMJ warhead for controlled firing

The Full Metal Jacket bullet, fully jacketed except at the base, significantly limits barrel fouling while ensuring consistent penetration of cardboard targets. This type of bullet is particularly suited to repetitive firing, allowing you to extend your sessions without loss of accuracy.

Geco manufacturing quality and consistency

Geco .45 ACP cartridges undergo rigorous quality control at every stage of production. Every component, from the brass case to the modern primers that ensure consistent firing, contributes to the ammunition's overall performance. Geco thus guarantees exemplary reliability, shot after shot.
