The Delta 5 in .308 caliber is a precision rifle developed to meet the demands of professional and amateur performance shooters. Its cold-forged steel barrel guarantees consistent durability and accuracy, shot after shot. Thanks to its modularity, the shooter can easily replace the barrel to change caliber or adapt the weapon to various distances.

The one-piece aluminum chassis provides optimum rigidity, essential for stable shots. Ergonomics are also at the heart of the design, with a fully adjustable stock that allows for customization of length, cheek rest and cant. The integrated Picatinny rail provides a versatile platform for adding optics and other accessories.

Ideal for long-range shooting, the Delta 5 also stands out for its ability to accept AICS magazines, making its use practical and effective in competition or on missions.
