Discover a rifle combining lightness and reliability, designed for optimal performance in all conditions.

Alliance of Japanese precision and Austrian knowledge. The quality and precision of the HOWA fire action is well established, the steel used offers excellent rigidity. The associated stock is designed by FBT, the objective of this Austrian company is to design the most rigid sticks possible using high quality carbon, tested in military conditions by shooting more than 2000 cartridges.

By these properties, this group will be able to accompany its owner during many seasons of hunting whatever the weather.

The Howa Carbon .270 Win rifle features a 22-inch barrel made of high-quality steel, providing exceptional rigidity for accurate shots. The carbon stock, designed by the Austrian company FBT, is tested to withstand extreme conditions, ensuring increased durability and reliability. This combination of advanced materials and ergonomic design makes the Howa Carbon an ideal choice for hunters looking for performance and lightness.
