Comparison with other similar products

Compared to the STF/12 Tactical bag also offered by Fabarm, the Commando bag stands out for its slightly larger dimensions and its ability to carry the rifle disassembled, thus offering appreciable compactness for transport. In addition, the Commando bag is equipped with shoulder straps that convert into backpack mode, offering additional flexibility compared to the Tactical bag which mainly has reinforced handles for carrying by hand. Both bags are made of 600 Denier polyester, ensuring robust protection, but the choice between the two will depend on transport preferences and specific storage and accessory needs.
