Strong and lightweight, the WBP Standard high polymer handguard optimizes grip while ensuring excellent heat dissipation.

Designed for AK platforms, the WBP Standard High Polymer Handguard combines lightness and strength. Its reinforced structure ensures increased durability while maintaining a reduced weight for easier handling. Integrated grooves improve grip, providing stability and comfort during prolonged firing.

Design and materials

The WBP Standard high handguard is made of reinforced polymer, offering excellent mechanical resistance while limiting the weight of the assembly. This material also ensures good resistance to the heat generated during intensive shooting, thus protecting the shooter's hand and extending the life of the handguard.

Optimized ergonomics

Integrated grip grooves provide a firm and stable grip, even in wet or stressed conditions. Its shape is specially designed to adapt to dynamic movements and ensure precise control of the weapon.

Compatibility and installation

Designed to fit perfectly on traditional AK platforms, the WBP Standard handguard installs easily without requiring major modifications. It ensures perfect compatibility with standard systems while maintaining a solid attachment.
