Modernize your AK platform without modification

The Kruk 1U040-MIL handguard replaces the original handguard on AKM , AK-74 , and AKS-74 platforms while utilizing the original mounting points. No cutting or permanent adjustments are required, thus preserving the weapon's integrity.

A versatile M-LOK platform

Thanks to its M-LOK interface on three sides, this handguard allows for the installation of numerous accessories such as a foregrip, bipod, light, or any other compatible equipment. This modularity makes it easy to adapt the weapon's configuration to the needs of the sport shooter.

Robust machined aluminum design

Made from 6082 aluminum and entirely CNC machined, this handguard combines rigidity, lightness, and excellent mechanical strength. Weighing only 232 g , it minimizes added weight while providing excellent stability for installed accessories.

Compatible with original equipment

The Kruk 1U040-MIL handguard remains compatible with the original gas tube or aftermarket models. It also allows the cleaning rod to remain in its original position and is compatible with the GP-25 grenade launcher , thus preserving the platform's characteristics.

A durable finish

Available with anodizing or a Cerakote coating, this handguard offers exceptional protection against wear and chemical agents. The Cerakote treatment, widely used by leading firearms manufacturers, provides excellent durability with a thin coating of approximately 50 microns.

FAQ

Which platforms are compatible with this handguard?

It is compatible with AK-74, AKM, AKS-74 rifles as well as civilian rifles based on these platforms.

Does the assembly require any modification to the weapon?
