The PX-9 DUTY comes with 3 sets of grip backstraps and side plates to adjust its pistol grip width according to the shooter's morphology.

Its removable Magwell facilitates magazine insertions and also ensures an excellent grip on the side of the weapon.

In terms of ergonomics, the PX-9 features grip grooves at the front and rear of the slide, thus facilitating weapon handling.

In terms of safety, the pistol is equipped at the rear of the slide with a bright red indicator, both visual and tactile, allowing control of whether the firing pin is cocked.

At the ejection window, the extractor also has a bright red part, which when it pops out allows you to check that a round is chambered.
